The Challenge

Mobility of information and communication is a key success factor in today's competitive business environments. Mobilising business communication enables companies to react faster and much more flexible in business with their customers or clients.

Speaking of business communication, most known solutions are limited either to certain smartphones or demand cost-intensive deployment of proprietary server solutions.

The Solution: Out-of-the-box

O3SIS provides an information mobilising service which partners can perfectly utilise to cover the needs of their business customers.

With the offering to manage and mobilise contacts, calendar, tasks and notes as well as having email communication on any mobile device - partners present a very cost attractive service to their target customers.

All in one - The Living Communication Suite

The O3SIS Living Communication Suite leverages investments for existing employee's mobile phones by enabling synchronisation plus mobile and push email capabilities. Utilising the comprehensive portfolio of supported native clients, in combination with the O3SIS world leading client portfolio for e.g. Windows Mobile, Symbian phones as well as Blackberry or iPhone assures, that close to all handsets are able to use the services.
